Empowering Makers: The Maker Collective ملتقى الصناع

By fostering innovation and creativity within the maker community in Jordan, we have witnessed remarkable growth and potential among individuals and entities engaged in maker culture.

Over the years, our efforts have led to the emergence of a vibrant ecosystem comprising makers, innovators, entrepreneurs, and various supporting stakeholders. Building upon this foundation, the Crown Prince Foundation (CPF) is launching 'The Maker Collective', a first-of-its-kind Maker Event in Jordan designed to unite, empower, and elevate all facets of the maker community and its ecosystem under one umbrella.

The Maker Collective is anticipated to be an annual event aiming to serve as a platform where diverse stakeholders from the maker ecosystem converge to exchange ideas, forge collaborations, and catalyze innovation.

By fostering a dynamic environment of learning, networking, and partnership, we aspire to propel Jordan's maker movement to new heights, driving socio-economic development and technological advancement in the region.

Crafting Connections: The Symbolism behind The Maker Collective

The Maker Collective represents a revolutionary convergence of creative minds and innovative spirits within Jordan. The name itself signifies a union, a gathering place where makers of all kinds come together to share ideas, collaborate on projects, and push the boundaries of what's possible.

The inspiration behind the name and logo is rooted in the symbolism of a gear, which represents industry, creativity, and collaboration. Just as a gear is an essential component in a machine, working in harmony with other gears to drive progress, The Maker Collective aims to be the central point for Jordan's maker community—a place where creativity, knowledge, and resources are shared freely to empower individuals and foster collective growth.
